

at the hearings of the subcommittee considering the deficiency appropriation bill. He seemed a bit tired, but was mentally alert. The committee adjourned when the house met at noon and Mr. Madden retired to his private office, where he received callers and dictated letters.

About one o'clock Mr. Madden had his lunch brought in on a tray and ate at his desk. It was an unusually hearty lunch. He was eating when Representative Sprout (Rep., Ill.), dropped in for a chat. Then came Representatives Simmons (Rep., Neb.) and Holiday (Rep., Ill.), house conferees on the District of Columbia appropriation bill, seeking advice as to whether to yield to the senate on an important item.

"Don't yield an inch," Mr. Madden commanded with a laugh and a wave of his napkin.

A few minutes later Representative Sprout (Rep., Ill.) telephoned to report details of the plans for the Chicago reception of the German and Irish flyers.

"Good work, Fred," said Mr. Madden, "anything I can do to show our appreciation of those heroes I want to do."

Sprout Sees Him Die.

Mr. Madden finished his luncheon and Mr. Sprout started to leave. Mr. Madden detained him. They had been lifetime friends and associated in business years ago in Chicago. Mr. Madden who was in the stone business, had given Mr. Sprout a start as a contractor by granting him credit for building material.

Mr. Madden drew his old friend back into his chair and with a laugh began to tell an anecdote that had appealed to his sense of humor.

Suddenly he gasped, clasped his hand to his heart and crumpled in his chair. Calling for help, Mr. Sprout sprang to his assistance. With the help of members of the office force, Mr. Sprout placed the stricken man on a couch, while others rushed into the chamber of the house, across the hall, to summon some of the numerous doctors in the legislative body.

The first medical man to respond was Representative Sirovich of New York. He was soon joined by Representatives Fitzgerald of Ohio, Summers of Washington, and Irwin of Illinois, all physicians, and by Dr. Robert McGrath, a Washington doctor, former conferee of Chicago, who had been waiting in an anteroom for an interview with Mr. Madden.

Pronounce Him Dead.

All efforts to revive Mr. Madden proved of no avail and Dr. Sirovich pronounced his death due to coronary thrombosis of the heart.

Representative Sirovich could not say with certainty that he could have saved Mr. Madden's life had proper medical restoratives been available, but he deplored the lack of such emergency equipment in the houses of congress.

The house at the time was debating the farm relief bill. Representative Williams (Rep., Ill.) interrupted the proceedings and announced the death of Mr. Madden. The house adjourned at once as a mark of respect.

Representative Britten was placed in charge of the funeral arrangements. The funeral services will be held in the house at 1 p. m. Sunday. Previous to the service the body will lie in state

Madden's Death May Seat Negro—Mayor Controls Nominee

BY PARKE BROWN.

Although grief over the death yesterday of Congressman Martin B. Madden and the usual inclination to suppress discussion of the political effects of a leader's demise kept public utterances on the point at a minimum, intense interest was shown in the selection of his successor as the Republican nominee for congress in the First district.

That interest arose particularly because the district includes the south side black belt and it has been claimed that three-fourths of its registered voters are Negroes. At each biennial primary and election for the last decade, including the recent primary, the race question has been raised to some extent and the general query following the news from Washington of the congressman's death was whether a Negro will be given the nomination won by Mr. Madden on April 10.

Thompson Has Control

That question, it was generally conceded, will be settled by Mayor Thompson. He controls the ward committee men empowered by law to fill the vacancy on the ballot, and it is believed entirely possible that he will name a Negro for the honor.

If the mayor does to the next congress is almost certain to include the first Negro member to sit in that body in the last 25 years. Colored people throughout the country have had an eye on the possibility of having a congressman of their race from the First Illinois district. That Thompson is likely to accede to this desire is admitted among some of his closest associates. He overruled the personal wishes of some of his black belt lieutenants in the district this spring and at a meeting of the city council, which had passed resolutions and ordered the city hall closed the day of the congressman's funeral.

Newspaper and magazine biographers of the veteran congressman leader have commented for years on the fact that he succeeded simultaneously in two separate fields, those of politics and business, winning his early way particularly by hard, unsparring labor.

Law Appears Clear

Election law experts say the 1927 primary law is unmistakable in its provisions for filling the vacancy. It specifies that the Congressional committee shall fill the place and that the ward committee men in a Chicago district constitute that committee.

Among those mentioned as Mayor Thompson's possible choice for the nomination to succeed Madden were Bishop A. J. Carey, a member of the city civil service commission, Roscoe Conkling Simmons, an assistant corporation counsel, Ald. L. B. Anderson, State Senator Adelbert H. Roberts and Committeeman De Priest.

Of these, Bishop Carey is considered the most popular choice among the people and he may have the support guished members. The last funeral in the house were those of Champ Clark and James R. Mann.

When the doctors were working over Mr. Madden, his daughter, Mrs. Paul Henderson, was summoned from the Madden residence in Massachusetts Avenue Heights. Two hours later she went home to break the news to Mrs. Madden, who has been an invalid many years.

Mr. Madden suffered a breakdown of health four years ago. A heart ailment was the diagnosis at that time. He gave up smoking. After a prolonged rest he returned to his labors apparently as well as ever. He took two of his grandsons to Europe one summer.

In Congress 25 Years.

Mr. Madden had been in the house a quarter of a century. He worked up in the organization of the house until he became chairman of the appropriations committee, the most important committee in the body.

He virtually revolutionized the methods of dispatching business in this committee. He introduced a system into the work and expedited the disposition of the dozen or more measures in which congress annually appropriates more than three billion dollars for the upkeep of the government.

To Mr. Madden no less than to the budget system should go the credit for holding down appropriations since the war. He was the terror of department and bureau heads seeking by devious means to get increased allowances.

The ranking member of the appropriations committee is Dan Anthony of Kansas, who now would become chairman were it not for the fact that he is ill and has not been in Washington the last two sessions. The chairmanship under the circumstances will go to the next in rank, Representative William B. Wood (Rep., Ind.).

Dawes Praised Dead Man.

"In the death of Congressman Madden the nation and public service suffer a grave loss," said Vice President Dawes. "Congressman Madden occupied a key position in the administration of government. An able and industrious man, he reached a commanding position of influence as chairman of the house appropriations committee because of years of tireless work in familiarizing himself with the actual revenue needs of all the departments and independent establishments of the government. When he spoke upon a subject it was the voice not of authority but of knowledge, and was so recognized."

"To his friends, here and elsewhere,

MADDEN NUMBERED AMONG NATION'S GREAT MEN, SAYS COOLIDGE

Washington, D. C., April 27.—(AP)—President Coolidge sent Mrs. Martin B. Madden his condolences at the death of her husband today, praising Madden as one "of our great men," both because of his personal character and public policies.

The communication read:

"The passing of your distinguished husband, the Honorable Martin B. Madden, is a personal loss to me and a great loss to our country."

"I could always rely upon his support to defend the treasury of the United States. He had about him a rugged honesty and great force of character, that won the confidence and respect of all who came in contact with him."

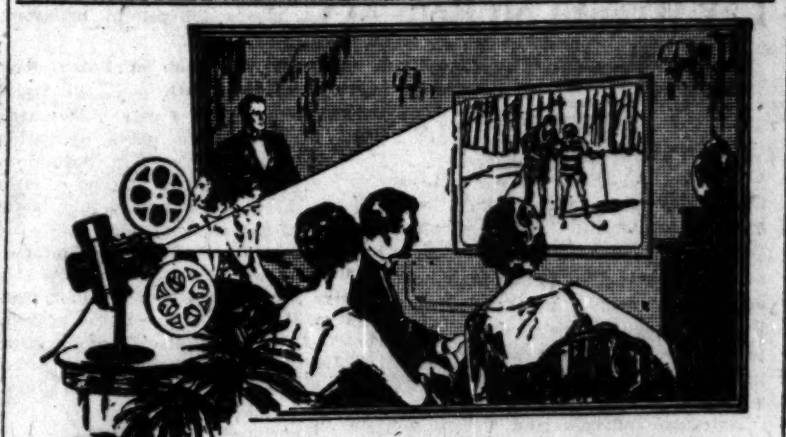

"His long service in the house of representatives was marked with an increasing usefulness, which it will be exceedingly difficult to replace. He will truly rank as one of our great men."

"I wish to express to you and your family my deep sympathy, in which Mrs. Coolidge joins."

perience in time led to his appointment as chairman of the great appropriations committee of the house of representatives. There he displayed his talent, his energy, and his wisdom, gained from wide and exact knowledge of the affairs of the government, in a way to attract national attention. No other member of the house had greater influence nor rendered greater services to the country than he. His death will be profoundly mourned in Illinois."

his death comes as a great shock."

"Martin B. Madden came to the congress with unusual advantages," said Senator Deussen. "In addition to great natural ability and force of character, he had had a long and successful career in business. His ability and ex-

POLL OFFICIALS ARE COUNT IN QUEER' PRECINCT

Charge G.O.P. Judge and Clerk Took Charge.

Three polls officials, called before the election commissioners last night to explain why all of the forty-six Crowe campaign candidates each received one vote out of a total of 495 cast in the 27th precinct of the 27th ward in the recent primary, placed the blame on Patrick P. Curran, 1621 Warren street, Republican judge, and Charles Bauer, 1940 Warren avenue, Republican clerk. Curran and Bauer have both been quizzed.

Curran and Bauer took charge and the rest of us had to sit around and wait," Ellsworth declared. "They counted the vote and made up the sheet and entered the votes for the candidate."

Demand Jury Inquiry.

Ellsworth renewed demands for a grand jury investigation of the alleged frauds and disorders, including the murder of one candidate, were made.

Authority for the calling of the special jury rests with Cook county courts in the absence of such action by the attorney general. Should the courts become the special prosecutor, county judges Edmund K. Jarecki, charged one of the inquiries, could the taking of evidence during the trial.

Delays Granady Inquest.

Granady's inquest into the murder of the candidate who was slain, O'Connell, was adjourned to May 2 to permit of further inquiry by a special grand jury association committee.

Granady's Charles Center Case and Charles X. Busch, representing the association committee, conferred with yesterday with Assistant District Attorney Allen Healy who is conducting a government probe of the election.

Officials of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People announced a campaign to raise funds to push the Granady slaying investigation.

"It's a nickel," said T. W. Chamberlain, local treasurer of the association, "for the county to bring Granady's slaying to justice. Cooperation is lacking from the state's attorney's office, and understand Granady's slayers are down, but witnesses are afraid to testify."

BOY, 6, POINTS OUT DEFENDANT AS FATHER'S SLAYER

"That's the man who shot my daddy," said little Edward Szczepanski, 6 years old, as he walked up and pointed his finger at Michael Cios, 25, of 1757 West 17th street, the oldest of five defendants in Judge Harry E. Miller's Criminal court.

The boy was testifying at the trial of the five for the murder of his father, Joseph, 31 years old, owner of a grocery at 1736 Lull place, who was shot and killed on Jan. 25 during a holdup of his store. The child told how he was playing in the store when the robbers walked in and shot down his father.

"My daddy was waiting on a woman when two bums came in," said the boy. "One stood by the door and the other went up to my daddy and pointed a gun like this [indicating how it was done]. The woman holstered and one of them shot my daddy and ran away."

"Did any one talk to you before you testified?" demanded Attorney John Prystalski for the defense.

"Sure," said the child. "My ma told me to tell the truth."

Grade "A" Scholars

Chicago Itself has the honor of claiming the two perfect students at the University of Chicago, it was announced yesterday. One is Donald Spencer Bond, 18, of 7108 South Normal avenue; the other is a coed, Miss Marion Joyce Richeson, also 18, of 6911 Eggleston avenue.

Bond has a perfect three years' record of grades "A"—"then which there is no whither, that grade being the highest there is. Miss Richeson has a three years' almost perfect record of 53 "A's" and 3 "B's."

And let it in haste be added that if Mr. Bond appears to have just a little something, intellectually, on Miss Richeson, it is only appearance. For while Mr. Bond is 18 and has only 3 years of college in, Miss Richeson is only 18 and has four years in—she will be graduated this semester.

EX-GAS OFFICIAL KILLED BY AUTO; SIX OTHERS DIE

Cook County Motor Toll
Mounts to 289.

Six persons died yesterday of injuries suffered in motor accidents in Cook county. The county toll was increased to 288 since Jan. 1.

Delbert H. Stevens, 53 years old, 5327 Berenice avenue, tyler of Candida lodge of Masons and retired superintendent of the People Gas Light and Coke company, was fatally injured by an automobile last night when he attempted to cross the street in front of 231 South Dearborn street. He died at Jefferson Park hospital.

The driver of the car was Joseph E. Dauchey, 2566 Leland avenue, an official of the Bolkmann-Dauchey Printing company. He was held for the inquest.

Others who died during the day were:

Eric Rawcliffe, 26 years old, of Downer Grove, thrown from his motorcycle when it struck the overturned motorcycle of Delmo Gordon, 18, of 4350 South St. Louis avenue, at Archer and Kilbourn avenues. Gordon's machine was wrecked when it hit a rut. He was not seriously injured.

Robert Dampfhofer, 3 years old; crushed under a wheel of the truck operated by his father, Carl Dampfhofer. The father had left the vehicle parked in the alley in the rear of his home, 1351 West Walton place, while he ate lunch. He started the truck without noticing that his son was hanging from a rope underneath.

Charles L. McDonald Jr., 5 year old son of a physician living at 4735 South Western avenue, was struck by a truck driven by Robert Sherwood of Buchanan, Mich., while trying to cross the street in front of his home. His father examined his injuries and believed them not to be serious. The boy died last night.

Mrs. Mary S. Slattery, 1835 Lunt avenue; injured on Easter Sunday while motoring with her husband, James L. Slattery, a fruit and vegetable broker. Her head struck the top of their sedan when it passed over rough pavement.

Mrs. Margaret Chambers, 54 years old, 5053 Balmoral avenue; died of shock suffered in a collision Sunday evening between her automobile and one driven by Melvin Cook, a private from Fort Sheridan.

Mrs. Mildred Johnson, 63 years old, 849 North Hoyne avenue. Struck by an automobile on April 5 at Leavitt and Augusta streets.

Dropped as Member, He Sues Rotary for $100,000

Neal F. Meares, known at weekly luncheons as "Neal," died a $100,000 suit yesterday against the Rotary club of Chicago, alleging he has suffered that loss in social standing and business opportunities from being expelled by that club last November.

"I was good at snappy go getter speeches," the plaintiff lamented. "I called every one by his first name. I sang a clear tenor at the jolly song fests. There was no reason to expel me. They said I had moved my business to California, but it wasn't so."

Mr. Meares, as he was known outside of the weekly luncheons, is a genealogist and, for two years, he was the only Rotarian of this classification in the world, he related. His business, such as proving that Pola Negri's husband is a bona fide prince, carries him about the country, he said, but his legal and Rotary residence never was other than Chicago during the last few years, he insists. At present, he resides at the St. Regis hotel.

The pleading, prepared by Attorney H. W. Haidenrich, sets up that Mr. Meares was elected to the Rotary club on Dec. 15, 1925. He donned the lapel badge labeled "Neal" regularly and was frequently in demand as a speaker, according to the bill. Even when out of town on business, he always found the weekly Rotary luncheon, sending back a notice to the Chicago secretary so as to keep his record of never having missed a meeting.

Last year, he was in Los Angeles much of the time as a witness in a will contest and it was then that he was ousted by the Chicago club without warrant, he alleges.

The plaintiff was "greatly embarrassed and chagrined" and "hindered in business," the bill sets up, and he "must pay out large sums to restore himself to his proper position in society and business."

"Although I have been expelled," Mr. Meares told his attorney, "I'll always remain a Rotarian at heart, remembering the slogan that 'His profit is most who serves best.'"

ACT TO RELIEVE TAXPAYERS, BUT NOT THIS YEAR

Officials Will Consult on Cutting Expenses.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The protests against high taxes in Chicago resulted in official action from two sources yesterday.

The first came from William H. Malone, chairman of the state tax commission, after he had been notified by C. C. Carnahan, attorney for the board of assessors, that he had advised that board to publish the tax valuations on all real estate by house and street number.

"If those published lists show, as all evidence indicates, that there have been gross inequalities in tax valuations," said Mr. Malone, "the state tax commission will order a reassessment of all property, regardless of the time, trouble and expense involved."

C. O. Fairweather of the University of Chicago charges that one part of the real estate owners in Chicago pays $20,000,000 a year more than their share of the taxes in order that another part of the property owners may be saved $20,000,000 in tax payments.

Action in City Council.

The other attack came in a resolution presented to the city council by Ald. John S. Clark, chairman of the finance committee, asking a conference to devise a plan for reducing governmental expenditures. To this conference he would invite the school board, county board, drainage board, park board, and the chairman of the house and senate committees on appropriations.

Both of those moves suggested remedies looking to the future. Neither of them relieves taxpayers of their present payments. Those taxpayers flooded the county building yesterday. There were so many of them in the morning that one-third of the crowd could not even get inside of the collector's office. They jammed the corridors, blocking the entrances, jostling, shoving, and pushing around until they became tired and angry.

The bickering and quarreling between the taxpayers and the 20 deputy sheriffs who were trying to preserve order threatened at one time to develop physical trouble. One out of every four taxpayers had a chip on his shoulder and indignation on his tongue. Many of the hecklers were women.

Women Heckle Clerks.

Two clerks emerged from the collector's office at noon, crowded by 200 waiting and weary taxpayers who had been unable to get inside of the office.

"There go two fat, bloated grafters to spend our money for their lunch," yelled one woman. That is a mild sample of the comments.

The only hope of relief from present bills was suggested yesterday by the taxation committee of the Cook county real estate board. It obtained an opinion from its lawyer, Austin L. Wayman. His suggestions offer aid to a very small minority.

"Such taxpayers as filed or had filed with the board of review complaints against valuations placed by the board of assessors," suggests Mr. Wayman, "can pay such portion of their taxes as they deem equitable; and on application for judgment alone

ENGLISH RAILWAY SETS NONSTOP RECORD IN 400 MILE JOURNEY

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, April 27.—The longest nonstop railroad run ever accomplished in any country occurred today when the London, Midland, and Scottish line's "Royal Scot" in two sections, from London to Glasgow and Edinburgh without a stop, averaging 50 miles an hour. The distance from London to Edinburgh is 343 miles, and from London to Glasgow, 401 miles. The London and Northeastern line had recently announced it was introducing a 282 mile nonstop run next Tuesday.

Today's run was a surprise to passengers, none of whom were aware that they were embarking on a history-making journey.

The Glasgow train left Euston station at 10 a. m. and arrived at Glasgow at 6:37 tonight. The Edinburgh train left at 10:05 a. m., reaching its destination at 6:39 this evening.

In the summer, they can resist the balance. In many cases where an injustice has been done it can be righted in this way.

Possible Way of Attack.

Mr. Wayman goes on: "In certain cases involving taxes of considerable size, an equitable action attacking the tax as violating the uniformity and equality provisions of the constitution would be advantageous; but because of the cost of such proceedings, it is not recommended except in cases of very large buildings."

"The only legal relief open to persons who have not appeared before the board of review is by way of attack on the legality of specific levies. There is a lawyer in town specializing in this sort of work, and he has said after a great deal of careful work and consideration of the subject, that it is his opinion about 7 per cent of the tax can be wiped out as invalid. This is so small an amount, for the ordinary property owner, that it is not worthy of consideration, because of the necessary legal expense involved. For loop property owners and large corporations, it is of course a considerable item."

Mr. Wayman suggests further that those dissatisfied with their taxes should appeal next July to the board of review to obtain reductions in the bills next year.

Penalty Tuesday Night.

Another feature which may add still more to the turmoil relates to the day on which a penalty will be added for delinquency in tax payments. On Thursday it was given out authoritatively by a responsible official of the county collector's office that taxes must be paid before midnight of May 1 to avoid the penalty of one per cent a month.

It was represented that was the legal view of Schuyler & Weinfeld, attorneys for County Collector Harding. The formal opinion has not been delivered, according to a lawyer from Schuyler & Weinfeld's office yesterday. The collector is proceeding on the theory that the written opinion will conform to the oral view previously expressed by his lawyers.

A little more than $23,000,000 has been collected in taxes to date this year, as compared with $22,000,000 on the same day last year. The big payers, as usual, are waiting until the last day before handing in their checks.

Taxing Bodies Bemoaned.

The rooms of the board of assessors and the board of review were well filled all day yesterday with persons complaining and protesting against high taxes. Except where obvious clerical errors have been made, neither board has the power to do anything. The persistent protests have put all of the board members on edge.

Their position in general is that there has been a widespread plea for equalization of valuations, and they have increased values accordingly, so that the valuations now are fairer than before in recent years. But members of the assessing bodies are telling hundreds of taxpayers that the principal cause of high taxes lies with the tax-expending bodies, the city, school board, park board, military district, forest preserve district, and others. It is claimed that the equalization of values for taxing purposes neither raises nor lowers taxes. That feat is accomplished by the levies demanded by the tax-expending bodies.

Carry Complaints to Aldermen.

Many taxpayers have carried their stories to aldermen who are up for re-election next spring. Unless the tax feeling dies down in the meantime or promise of reduction of the burden is made, it appears that some aldermen may have difficulty in being re-elected. This is said to be the motive underlying the council resolution of yesterday calling for a conference of tax spenders to find a way to reduce taxes.

One of the chief causes of increased taxes, so far as tax-expending bodies influence it, is the city government itself. The city taxes levied to be collected this year are $12,000,000 more than last year by the most favorable method of reckoning. By a method which is probably more accurate, the city taxes levied this year are $10,000,000 more than those levied last year.

Of course it can be explained that all of the increase is not for current corporate expenses, but it is pointed out, the tax payer must settle regardless of the particular purpose for which the taxes have been levied.

The council finance committee at its session on Thursday was confronted with the need for $1,000,000 more revenue, on its own method of reckoning. It was revealed that the city through an oversight had neglected to levy all it could last year by about $1,000,000. That "slip" will probably not be made next year.

However, the tax increase for the city is only about 20 per cent, while that of the Sanitary district is over 50 per cent. The sanitary board is trying to collect $5,000,000 more this year than last year.

Powder Means Much to Me

The average woman considers the actress hopelessly ahead of her in the art of enhancing natural beauty.

The reason for this advantage is that the actress makes a business of attracting and she must "know how." It is her bread and butter.

In the matter of powder, for instance, my forty-odd years on the stage have made me almost unbelievably skimming. I never considered the cost of my powder, so long as it pleased me.

After years of searching I found in France the powder that now adds the last touch to my careful toilette. It satisfies me because it has the one quality I have found in no other powder. That is, it blends so smoothly with the texture of my skin that my face never looks "made up" when I am offstage.

Because it lends such natural bloom I call it my Youth Powder. In the immense quantities now produced I am able to offer it to women at a low price.

If your skin requires a clinging powder I advise using my Youth Powder in the Heavy Type. It also can be had in the Light Type. Both have the same delicate elusive fragrance.

Get either type in Pink, Brunette or White at any toilet counter.

BAR HAS SLATE READY TO BLOCK BOSSSES' TRICKS

Lawyers Prepare Superior Court Ticket.

As preparedness in the event that the Republican and Democratic county judicial conventions next Wednesday will nominate Superior court tickets that meet with its indorsement, the Chicago Bar association will put into circulation this morning a petition for nomination of an independent ticket. If the conventions renominate the sitting judges whose terms expire and name an acceptable choice for the vacancy left by the death of Judge James W. Wells, the petition may not be filed. But to be ready for contingencies, the association may file the petition and then withdraw it if satisfactory nominations are made on the regular tickets.

"Last year," said Carl R. Latham, president of the association, "we were taken by surprise when several sitting judges with excellent records were re-nominated."

Caused by Coalition.

Mr. Latham was referring to the so-called coalition circuit court ticket which brought public protest because three judges, Charles M. Torrison, Oscar M. Torrison and Frank Johnson Jr., were omitted from the slate. This year, in addition to the Wells vacancy, there are six Superior court places open. They are held by three Republicans, Walter P. Steffen, Worth H. Taylor and Jesse Holdom, and three Democrats, John J. Sullivan, Martin M. Griddle and Joseph Sabath. It is understood that the organization of the Bar association's committee on candidates, consisting of the former presidents of the association, are not satisfied with informal assurances and propose to put into the field a ticket consisting of the seven men who won in a bar primary last February. At a meeting of the board of governors of the association last night that program was approved.

Three Judges Endorsed.

The winners in the bar primary included only three of the sitting judges, Steffen, Republican, and Griddle and Sabath, Democrats. The others indorsed for the full terms were Municipal Judge Howard W. Hayes and Daniel P. Trude, Republicans, and Charles Center Case, Democrat. State Senator James J. Burbour was indorsed for the Wells vacancy.

The best information obtainable concerning the bosses' plans regarding the vacancy is that the Thompson-Crowe and Brennan chiefs are likely to give it to Municipal Judge Robert E. Gentsel, who has been indorsed by the bar for the city bench.

MEXICAN REBEL FORCE DEFEATED; LEAVES 19 DEAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, April 27.—Catholic rebels again became active in the state of Guanajuato yesterday. Four hundred appeared near Las Guajolotas and were attacked by the 27th battalion of federal infantry. The battle lasted all afternoon.

The rebels put up stubborn resistance, but were finally driven into the mountains. Nineteen rebels were killed.

One of the retreating bands of rebels, numbering about 100, descended on the El Cubo mine near the city of Manuel Doblado. Rural guards attacked and dispersed them.

Priest Sent to Penal Colony.

Mexico City, April 27.—(P)—A Catholic priest, Oseorio Leyva, has been sent with ninety other prisoners, for the most part burglars, robbers and murderers, to Tres Marias island, a penal colony in the Pacific. Leyva was among the Catholics arrested at various times in Mexico City in recent months charged with seditious activities.

STELK REFUSED RETRIAL; JUDGE RAPS ALIENISTS

Ex-Jurist Faces 1 to 20
Year Sentence.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Clarence L. Masters, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Stanley Elzkowski.

James O'Leary, embezzlement, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Frank Comerford.

John Stelk, former judge of the Municipal court, was denied a new trial yesterday by Judge Frank Comerford in the Criminal court and unless the defendant's motion for probation is allowed a sentence of from 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary for forging notary public seals will be imposed on May 4.

In denying the new trial motion Judge Comerford assailed professional alienists and psychiatrists. Five of them had testified that Stelk was insane, but the jury in the trial discarded this testimony and found the defendant sane and guilty.

Calls Alienist Peril to Justice.

"The court is pleased with the fact that the jury was discerning enough not to be misled by professional psychiatrists who are known as expert witnesses," the judge said. "I think they represent probably one of the greatest dangers to the administration of criminal justice in this and every other community."

"It is a known fact that the expert witness, called an alienist or psychiatrist, is a man who usually takes the color of his opinion from the back ground of his fees."

"It is unfortunate that a judge is compelled to rest in silence while witness after witness, not only in the Stelk case but in others, comes into court without any pretense at examining the factors and hypotheses and has an opinion ready for the mental portrait presented by the lawyers.

Urges State Hire Experts.

"It is sickening—and if any of the agencies for the suppression of crime want to lend themselves to an ambitious and worthy enterprise, it would be to devise some means of having the question of sanity determined by alienists who are hired by the state, as the court is hired by the state."

"It is absurd to think that 12 men from various walks of life, teamsters, bank clerks and others, can sit as a jury and listen to men who have studied medicine for years give their conclusions and then decide whether they are right or not."

CHEERING N. Y. CROWDS MAUL BREMEN FLYERS

The United States we were gratified to know that at least we were above the clouds of the country we had set out for long ago, from Ireland.

Only first impressions of the United States were very funny. What wonderful straight roads you have. They are for miles and miles, with scarcely a turn, so different from our crooked roads and lanes in Ireland. And I was very much impressed by the color of the terrain, which was brown and not green. In Ireland it is always green, even in winter.

The journey down the Hudson valley was very pleasant until between Albany and New York, where we ran into a heavy rain. Near New York City we met a thick and nasty pea soup fog, but, thanks to the skill and homing pigeon instinct of Bert Balchen, we reached Curtis field safely at approximately 2 o'clock.

Swish to Train.

It had been our intention to arrive incognito. We planned to refuel there and hop on to Washington before any one knew what we were about, so as to reach the capital in time for Lloyd Bennett's funeral.

But we found it quite impossible to go on from Curtis field because of the terrible weather, so were glad to move on by train.

The New York crowds were extremely demoralizing. We were almost torn to pieces trying to get into the station master's office at the Pennsylvania terminal. They almost locked me out. I got so far behind the rest of the flyers.

Mailed by Crowds.

New York, April 27.—(Special.)—Dropping out of a gray sky, three addressed trans-Atlantic airmen halted momentarily at Curtis field, L. I. today and touched the soil of the United States just two weeks after they had expected to land here on a nonstop flight from Ireland.

Weather forced them to quit their

Ford relief plane in which they had flown from Lake St. Agnes, Que., after being rescued from their base on Greenly island. Late this afternoon they continued by train to Washington.

Instead of the tens of thousands who had hurried to the flying field to greet the flyers two weeks ago, only about a hundred persons were present to hail them. They had not been expected to stop in New York, word from Canada being that they would make a non-stop flight to Washington.

Something Like a Fight.

Field mechanics tried in vain to fend off the photographers and the other spectators who pressed forward. There was shoving and hard words were spoken.

Flashlights boomed like guns on a battlefield. What few policemen there were on the field lost their heads and punched each other when they were not waving their clubs at the crowd.

Immediately after landing, the party went to the Junkers hangar for lunch. After abandoning their air journey they were brought into New York under an escort of motorcycle policemen of Nassau county.

When the two cars containing the party reached the Pennsylvania station, a cheering crowd of several hundred was waiting.

The flyers were literally pulled through the jam. The baron and Koehl stumbled ahead first, held up by two policemen; then came Miss Junkers, and finally Maj. Fitzmaurice in his steady shift.

"Hey, Fitz," the crowd yelled at him, and he seemed to enjoy it.

"Thatta boy, baron," was the hail for the German nobleman, whose monocle was never dislodged during all the excitement.

These two seemed to be the most easily recognizable and therefore got most of the acclaim. Koehl, stolidly plunging along, was hardly recognized. Maj. Fitzmaurice was completely lost for a time and there were so many policemen tumbling over each other that he had to be shoved through them by sheer strength. The police were even more excited than the crowd and in one hectic interval two policemen were observed pushing and pummeling each other.

It was announced tonight that the plans for the city reception and water pageant on Monday, the city dinner on Tuesday and the other festivities for the crew of the trans-Atlantic Bremen would go through as scheduled.

It was announced that Mayor

Walker, representatives of the Irish Free State and the German republic and leading German-American and Irish-American societies would welcome the flyers at Mitchell field tomorrow.

News that arrangements were being made to have the flyers call on President Coolidge at Washington Wednesday threw elaborate functions planned by German-American and Irish-American societies, and other affairs off schedule.

Mrs. Elfride Koehl and Mrs. Violet Fitzmaurice, wives of the pilots of the Bremen, will not arrive here on the North German Lloyd liner Dresden until Monday morning. The ship was due Sunday, but has been delayed by heavy seas. It will probably dock in time for them to take part in the reception to their husbands, however.

Stinson Refuses to Build Thea Rasche Overseas Plane

Detroit, Mich., April 27.—(P)—The Stinson Aircraft corporation has turned down an order for an airplane for a trans-Atlantic flight from Thea Rasche, German aviator, returning to her a check for $2,700, paid as a deposit on a Stinson-Detroit plane.

BODIES OF MAN AND WOMAN ARE FOUND IN LAKE

A laborer employed on the new south side outer drive yesterday discovered the bodies of a man and a woman floating in Lake Michigan nearly a mile off shore. The body of the woman, who was about 35 years old, was fully clothed; that of the man, about 45, was nude.

Detective Sergts. August Barbour and Joseph Owens, of Cottage Grove station, who made the first examination of the bodies, said they failed to note any marks of violence. They said there was nothing to indicate the identity of the victims. The bodies were taken to the county morgue.

CURRIE DE HISTORY BADLY

Denies Any City's Ca

(Chicago Tribune)
COBURG, Ont., Apr. 27.—The last battle of the war to be rewritten, General Currie stated on his $10,000 libel action. Accounts already shown hopelessly inadequate money produced at the trial.

Even his own report had been exaggerated, Sir Arthur said. Official British reports, he said, declared entirely a bloodless war. Sir Arthur is suing for the latter's alleged "laughter" of an Armistice day.

After midnight on the anniversary of the armistice, a British force of 100 men was sent to the front lines. The force was met by German troops and a battle ensued. The British force was defeated.

While Sir Arthur was in the front lines, he was hit by a German bullet. He was wounded and taken to a hospital. He died of his wounds on April 27.

CURRIE DECLARES HISTORY OF MONS BADLY WRITTEN

Denies Any Bloodshed in City's Capture.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

COBURG, Ont., April 27.—The story of the last battle of Mons will have to be rewritten, Gen. Sir Arthur Currie stated on the witness stand at the $50,000 libel action this afternoon. Accounts already written have been shown hopelessly inaccurate by testimony produced at the trial here, he said.

Even his own report on the battle had been exaggerated by the opposition, Sir Arthur said. War diaries and official British reports erred the same way, he said, declaring that it was entirely a bloodless victory. Sir Arthur is suing W. T. R. Press for the latter's allegations charging "slaughter" of Canadian troops on Armistice day.

After midnight on Nov. 18, not one casualty occurred among the Canadian forces at Mons, Sir Arthur testified. Reports that he had ridden at the head of a triumphal procession through streets "paraded" with Canadian dead, Sir Arthur termed absolutely false. The report was traced to the late Gen. Morrison of the British press. The general had been misinformed, stated Currie.

"Pressure" Was Ordered. While Sir Arthur ordered the advance that led to the occupation of the historic Mons battlefield, he had no discretion in the matter, he said today. His orders were to exert continual pressure on the Germans, even though he knew that negotiations for the armistice were under way. That was why, he said, Foch wanted the continual pressure. He wanted to convince the Germans that they were hopelessly defeated.

CANADA ASKS U. S. TO STOP DRY SHOTS OVER LINE

Calls on Kellogg for an Investigation.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., April 27.—[Special.]—High-handed activities of the coast guard, and especially its propensity to shoot and investigate afterward, have aroused repercussions in both the British and Canadian parliaments, it was disclosed here today. Debate by Canadian legislators on the recent indiscriminate shooting by the coast guard on the Detroit river resulted today in the filing with the state department by Canadian officials of an aide memoire requesting an explanation.

lives of Canadian subjects across the river from Detroit.

Asked to Cease Firing. The United States was asked to investigate and, if possible, prevent indiscriminate firing on the American side. According to legislation officials, one of the wild shots struck a house and narrowly missed injuring a child, while another went through the windshield of an automobile and imbedded itself in the upholstery beside the driver.

In the aide memoire Mr. Massey stated that an examination of stray bullets indicated that they had been fired by coast guard officials. It was pointed out that they were of the same caliber as those used by the American coast guard. Mr. Massey was assured that an investigation would be made and a reply sent as soon as possible.

Acting on a request originating in the house of commons, the British embassy today forwarded to London a full account of its correspondence with the state department in connection with the Isle of June incident, in which the coast guard destroyer Casin fired across the bow of the British mail and passenger steamer Isle of June, and later arrested the master, although no liquor was found. The information was wanted, it was said, for use in debate on the floor of the house.

Ship Captain Arrested. Inquiries received at the British embassy disclose that the British legislators particularly are aroused because the British boat Isle of June was molested while it was several miles at sea, according to the testimony of Capt. William H. Wheeler, master of the craft. The arrest of the captain, who had borne a good reputation with the Bahama authorities, also is objected to.

Fear that international complications may ensue as a result of the activities of the coast guard is expected to result in the issuance of new orders cautioning the rum chasers to be more careful. Similar orders, however, have been issued in the past without effect.

WOMAN PATIENT MISSING. The police were asked yesterday to search for Mrs. Grant Desmores, 57 years old, 3008 Bryant avenue, Minneapolis, who disappeared on April 25 after arriving here to undergo hospital treatment.

THE FIGHT AGAINST CRIME.

The Chicago crime commission, in a statement issued through its president, Frank J. Loesch, demands the resignation of three judges now sitting in the Criminal Court—Judges Emanuel Miller, son of Morris Miller of the Twentieth Ward; Stanley H. Klarkowski, former assistant to State's Attorney Crowe, and Otto Kerner, a Democrat close to Anton J. Cermak, president of the county board.

The commission has found these judges conspicuously engaged in one of the worst and the most common offenses against the effective enforcement of the law, the practice of waiving serious charges for which the defendant was indicted in order to secure pleas of guilty to minor offenses.

"These three judges—Miller, Kerner, and Klarkowski—were put on the bench by the politicians against the protests and votes of the Chicago Bar Association," the commission's statement declares. "The man who runs may read from the record of his politics needed them on the bench."

Since January first—three months in which holdups, murders, bombings, and other forms of crime have been both prevalent and notorious—there has been, says the commission, "only one trial and capital conviction for murder, and that not of a gunman but of a doctor who had performed an abortion."

Jurors were on hand, says the commission, "but it was easier to waive gun counts and secure pleas of guilty to minor offenses of which the criminals were not guilty and so—here is the political significance—so make a cheap record of convictions for the state's attorney and the judges."

"Waiving a gun count" means that the court permits a defendant indicted for robbery with a gun to plead guilty to plain robbery. Robbery with a gun carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment; the maximum penalty for plain robbery is twenty years. Or a robbery count may be waived and the defendant allowed to plead guilty to grand larceny which carries a maximum penalty of only ten years. Or a grand larceny charge may be waived and a plea permitted to petty larceny, which is only a misdemeanor and is punishable by only one year in the jail or reformatory.

The practice is vicious because it destroys entirely the meaning of the law. What good is a law against armed bandits, potential murderers, if they can count on getting the gun charge waived? Occasionally there is excuse for waiving a more serious charge in exchange for a plea of guilty, but such cases are extremely rare. The practice, in the majority of cases, is followed as the commission declares, to make a record.

Judges and prosecutors seeking reelection pull out statistics to show their percentage of convictions, but the statistics never show how many cases were pleas of guilty to a minor charge. On the face of their statistics they are better against crime; on the face of their true record they are compromisers.

The primary election not only revealed in clearer light than ever before the combination of crime and politics but it recorded the public wrath against it. On this issue the prosecuting officer of the county was defeated for reelection. He went into the election on his record and was beaten. The organization which supported him caused the outbreaks of lawlessness before and in the election which would have been only more terrifying if they had been successful.

The popular indignation which produced this wholesome result has not died down nor is it satisfied that one election cleaned up the situation. It is to be regarded as a beginning and not an end. The relations of political organizations to organized crime are just beginning to get their investigation and that is far from being to officialdom. It is a warning to clean house.

In the specific case of these judges against whom the crime commission makes complaint it is indicated that they should not continue in the Criminal Court. They defend their records, as is natural, but the commission has not made an official statement of conditions. The judges may protest, but they should have other assignments.

It may be that the influences which seek cooperation with prosecution and friendship in law administration will make an effort to demonstrate their strength in the judicial campaign, but the public will again be on guard against that. The city has gone part way. It is out to go the whole distance.

THE BOLDNESS OF BOULDER DAM.

In virtually no respect does Boulder Dam present a national interest or serve one. It asks a federal appropriation of $125,000,000 to provide an additional water supply for Los Angeles and other southern California cities, to produce electric power, to irrigate and reclaim desert land, and to provide flood protection for the Imperial valley.

Federal aid for protection against floods is consistent with accepted public policy, but Harper Leach for the Tribune has made it clear that the Imperial valley is the emotional appeal. Anything the valley really needs for its security could be done with a comparatively trifling appropriation. Imperial valley is the face on the barroom floor. It is to touch the note of pathos and cause even hard and close-fisted citizens to pause for reflection with misty eyes and a clutch at the throat.

It is not a federal function to provide Los Angeles and southern California towns with a water supply. That necessity is one to be provided by the communities themselves. Often it is difficult and expensive. Even with the lake at its door Chicago has found it costly to give its people pure water and the cost is represented now in the heavy tax bills. It would be outrageous to increase taxes here and elsewhere to grow grass in more California subdivisions. A California fortune can grow in water as quickly as in oil. It is a bold idea that California real estate values should be created by federal appropriation and general taxation the country over.

It is another bold idea that the federal government should undertake to give California and other Boulder Dam states electric power to create an advantage for their producers in competition with others whose taxes would be used to do this. Just as the Imperial valley is the poor child asking for protection, the power trust is the other part of the showmanship. The technique of present day treasury raiding is getting form. A victim for the tears, a villain for the fears. The promoters hopped the power trust.

It is not good policy to increase the productive farm area of the country now. The midwest is demanding relief from overproduction and it is hysterical to propose that this section be taxed to reclaim more growing area.

Senator Hiram Johnson of California is the spokesman for the bill in the senate. Age and experience have modified the senator. He began as the exponent of square dealing and against special interest, of disinterestedness in public life and against exploitation. The warrior has cooled. The materialist has evolved.

The senator advances the right of a state to promote its fortunes and the fortunes of some of its citizens by dipping into the public money. Ninety per cent of the Boulder Dam project has no place in congressional action. On nearly every count it is out. Virtually every reason advanced for it is a valid one against it.

Senator Johnson might properly take his place in line with a bill for such small piece of money as might be required for any legitimate flood protection in the Imperial valley, but he and his associates in this jack rolling of the U. S. are demanding the passage of a bill which never should have been introduced.

CRASHING THE PALACE GATE.

Annually there are two or three thousand American families trying to get a daughter or a wife presented to the king and queen of Great Britain. If the American ambassador in London is a fully self-respecting man he is ashamed of the proceedings. In the interest of national dignity and for his own sake he tries to cut the list down.

The applicants begin the scramble to crash the palace gate over here. Wherever pressure can be brought on politics it is applied. Sometimes the request to the ambassador comes from the executive offices of the White House, involving the American government in a procedure which the British properly view with amusement or derision. Congressmen and consequential politicians are enlisted by the aspiring ladies, or their husbands or fathers, and the best men win.

In effect, the United States is given a quota within which American women may prostrate themselves before the throne. George Harvey, in London in the Harding administration, ran the bet up to forty-nine, it being a good administration for go-getters. Ambassador Houghton has it down to twenty-five, and it is no secret that he'd be happy to reduce it to nothing. Most ambassadors detest the chore, as they should.

It is not to be expected that the people who seek to break into the presence will refrain for any considerations of self-respect. It contains their idea of a precious distinction, and their numbers and their activities will increase rather than diminish. National dignity requires that the American ambassador be relieved of participation in such affairs. If Americans break into the royal presence, it should be without government cooperation and aid.

The occasions when a presentation is essential as a courtesy are few, well defined, and easily recognized. All others are reflections on the character of the American people. The nation should be protected from them.

Editorial of the Day

"TO HELL WITH THE TRIBUNE."

(The State, Columbia, S. C.)

In commenting on the Waterloo explained by Len Small and Bill Thompson, the notorious and exceedingly unbecomingly politicians of Illinois and Chicago, the State paid tribute to the patriotic part performed against them by a newspaper of their party, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

In a page advertisement in the New York Times the Chicago paper presents the pictures of Small and Thompson. Those pictures "caught" the gentlemen while in the act of denouncing THE TRIBUNE. Small is saying, "THE TRIBUNE can go to hell." While "Big Bill" is shouting "To hell with THE TRIBUNE." The Chicago Journal admits with evident and understandable satisfaction that it bore the brunt of the attacks upon the press, as these men picked it out as their chief enemy. That is a high testimonial.

But THE TRIBUNE recognizes there can be no sleep for those standing for good government; the other side is everlastingly at work. "The Thompson machine," it says, "is smashed. It took a long time to do it. In years to come cunning hands may build other political engines of corruption in Chicago," but it promises to be on the job again should that time come.

"To hell with the newspapers" is the cry of the crooks.

How to Keep Well
By Dr. W. A. Waller

To the limit of space questions pertinent to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

CATARRH ALIAS SINUS INFECTION.

ABOUT SEVENTY per cent of what goes by the name of catarrh is sinus infection. I will tell you what I can about it, though I am sure I have finished you. In other words, there is much that we do not know about sinus infection, especially about how to cure it. The nose begins as a simple air tube leading to the larynx, and thence to the lungs. From it several passages lead off. One of these goes to the ear. Another group lead to a set of bony walled cavities located in proximity to the nose. These are the sinuses. They are almost a part of the nose.

A sinus infection is likely to extend to one or more of these cavities. Since the cavities drain very poorly, at best, the mucus and pus which result from infection cannot drain easily. The mucus and pus, in fact, infection will become chronic in greater than is the case where the acute infection is limited to the free surface of the nose.

Thence, most cases of so-called nasal catarrh are really chronic sinus infections. Diagnosis of sinus infection is made by the use of light. A properly constructed electric light is placed in the mouth while the patient is in a dark room. A sinus that is full of fluid will show as an opaque area. X-ray pictures help in the diagnosis. So does a history of pain located in a sinus region.

Treatment of sinus infection is often far from satisfactory. The ordinary catarrh remedies are of no service. They cannot and do not reach the sinuses. What good can they do if they fail to reach the place where the trouble is? Just now light and heat therapy is the most promising line of treatment.

It is claimed that few men who work in the out of doors sun have catarrh. Maybe they take the sun cure as they would.

Some day there will be biologic specifics for sinus infection, or catarrh.

CHILD PROBABLY NEEDS PLAY.

L. L. C. writes: Give me the best method of overcoming a tendency to biliousness in a school child. Is it advisable to give a sixteen year old girl pills for liver sluggishness?

REPLY: The probability is that a child who periodically develops so-called biliousness is subject to attacks of acidosis. There are at least two kinds of acidosis. Acidosis called biliousness, in a child, is likely to be caused by too much exercise, and, in part, to a diet that is rich in ice cream, candy, sweets, pastries and cereals, but no rich dressing; sour milk of different kinds; and leavened bread, meat, cereals, pastries, and bread.

Have the child try harder, more vigorous play, and especially open air play.

CHANGE YOUR DIET.

Mrs. O. writes: Four weeks ago I gave birth to a baby, and since then I have been troubled with constipation. I have been taking salts every two days. Please advise me how to remedy this.

REPLY: Stop the daily use of salts. Eat bran, sour milk, fruit, vegetables, and molasses. Drink an abundance of water.

CONSULT CANCER SPECIALIST.

Mrs. J. H. C. writes: Will you tell me if there is any positive way of finding out if a lump in the breast is a cancerous growth, or if it is a simple cyst? I have been there a number of months, and at times it is more or less painful.

REPLY: An experienced physician can make a possible or probable diagnosis from the appearance, feel, rate of growth, and other symptoms. Beyond that there is no way to tell in advance.

FORFEITURE OF CONTRACT.

Belmont Heights, Ill., April 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is there any way to protect a property owner in any case he is sold a house by a contractor on a contract he has not signed?

REPLY: I was told so many times that if a person cannot make his payments on the dot the subdivisor cannot foreclose if it is recorded at city hall. Is that true?

REPLY: The recorded contract would be a cloud on the vendor's title, such that court proceedings would probably be necessary in order to make the title clear. But there is no 15 month period allowed on the forfeiture of a contract as on the foreclosure of a mortgage.

UNFINISHED BUILDING.

Oak Park, Ill., April 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If when a tenant signs a lease the landlord makes a verbal statement that apartment will be completed by the first day of the lease period, and the apartment is not completed on that date, what recourse has the tenant? The tenant in this case verbally stated to the landlord that he was signing the lease with the understanding that the apartment was to be completed in time for occupancy the first day of the lease period.

REPLY: In the case of a lease of an unfinished building, there is an implied obligation that the premises shall be completed and ready for occupancy at the commencement of the term. [See Corpus Juris, page 46.]

Several courses are open. We are not in a position to choose between them.

TRY PARTITION PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, April 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A and B in partnership own a flat building in which both now live. A wishes to sell, but B does not. A now threatens to take this matter to court, claiming that he can force B not only to agree to the sale of A's share, but to agree to the sale of the entire property as well. Can this be done in the absence of any written agreement to that effect?

REPLY: F. L. M. Where owners of undivided interests in real estate cannot agree any one of them is entitled to form a public sale by partition proceedings. The cost of such proceedings, including the complainant's solicitor's fees, are chargeable against the proceeds of sale.

The question mark DID imply doubt. We have it on the best of authority the "NO" represents what SOMEBODY said when the subject was broached by a CERTAIN PARTY. You recall there is still a 19 in the offering.

LOVE CULT AID ASKS DIVORCE FROM HEIRESS

Nicholls Charges Society
Wife Is Insane.

New York, April 27.—[Special.]—Wendell J. Nicholls is suing his wife, Barbara Butherford Hatch Nicholls, a daughter of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, for an annulment of their marriage on the ground she is insane, it was learned today when Justice Levy in Supreme court signed an order permitting Nicholls to serve papers on his wife by publication.

In the bill of complaint, which was filed today in the county clerk's office, Nicholls alleges that his wife, to whom he was married Aug. 11, 1924, concealed from him that she was abnormal and had been abnormal before they were married.

He declared that she represented to him that she was normal both physically and mentally, and that had he known otherwise he would not have consented to the marriage. Mrs. Nicholls, her husband believes, is now in a sanitarium "somewhere in France."

Turned Away by Wife's Mother.
In his attempt to find his wife to serve her with a summons he has been unable to determine exactly where she is, Nicholls says in his bill of complaint. He declares he went to the home of his wife's mother yesterday to seek information of where his wife is, but was told Mrs. Vanderbilt would not receive him.

Mrs. Nicholls' first husband was Cyril Hatch, to whom she was married June 25, 1916, at her mother's home, then at 680 9th avenue. At that time she was 21 years old. She was divorced from Hatch in 1921.

A few years after her divorce she joined the exotic cult of Pierre Armand Bernard, also known as Oom the Omnipotent, whose headquarters were at New York. She made her home at the Charleston Country club there, the seat of the cult's activities, where she met Nicholls, then an assistant to Oom the Omnipotent.

Member of Famous Families.
Mrs. Nicholls gave Lewis Morris Butherford as her father's name and Anna Harriman as her mother's. She is the niece of Oliver Harriman, Joseph Wright Harriman, J. Low Harriman, and Herbert M. Harriman and of Mrs. Stephen Olin and Mrs. Frances C. Havemeyer.

She is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Harriman, and the half sister of the late Samuel B. Rands and George Winthrop Sands, sons of her mother by her first marriage, both of whom met with tragic deaths in motor accidents.

A sister of Mrs. Nicholls, Lady Dukes, wife of Sir Paul Dukes, recently made her debut in a ballet called "Her Majesty's Escapade" under Alexander Galvov in the Gaiety Theatre. Sir Paul and Lady Dukes were also followers of Oom at New York. Lady Dukes is the former wife of Odesa L. Mills.

SEND STEWART'S
TESTIMONY ON OIL
TO ROCKEFELLER

Washington, D. C., April 27.—[AP.]—An official transcript of the testimony given last Tuesday by Robert W. Stewart, wealthy Chicago oil official, before the Senate Teapot Dome committee, was forwarded today to John D. Rockefeller Jr., who has substantial holdings in Standard Oil stock.

Chairman Nye wrote Rockefeller that in view of his interest in the previous testimony given by the chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana he supposed that he would have an even greater interest in Stewart's latest utterances on the Continental Trading company deal.

When he appeared before the committee last February Rockefeller expressed regret at Stewart's attitude in withholding information from the investigators and said he had urged the Standard Oil official to tell the whole story. When Stewart was reflected a director by the stockholders recently Rockefeller withheld the vote of the 3 1/2 per cent of the shares of the Standard Oil stock.

Chairman Nye said that since Stewart now has disclosed that he received $159,500 of the Liberty bonds profits of the Continental, although not for them for his own benefit, it would be interesting to know what attitude Mr. Rockefeller would take, and also what his reaction would be with reference to the apparent discrepancies in the official testimony of February and April.

WORKED 50 YRS. AS BUTLER, LEAVES A $50,000 ESTATE

Venture in Eggs Gave Him Start.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., April 27.—[Special.]—For nearly half a century while serving others as a butler, George Glass was building up a fortune of his own, it was revealed when his will was filed for probate before the District of Columbia registrar of wills. When he died a few months ago Glass, who was a trusted employe of the late Joseph Medill, founder of The Chicago Tribune, for seventeen years, left an estate valued at upwards of $50,000.

Following the death of Mr. Medill, Glass came to Washington as a butler for Mrs. Benjamin H. Buckingham and remained in the Buckingham home for twenty-five years, until his death last July 17 in Chicago, however, he had turned his back on the butler's life for profitable speculation in eggs, which he bought out of his savings and held in cold storage until prices advanced.

From time to time the profits were invested in Chicago building lots, and in later years he bought first mortgages on real estate in the city. He died worth of the latter in addition to real estate in Wisconsin valued at more than $25,000 and several blocks of selected stocks and bonds.

In his will Glass designated Maurice A. Hearn, 6164 Broadway, as executor of the estate, and directed that all of his clothing and other personal effects should be given to the Epiphany church, to be distributed by that institution's social service agency or sent to missionaries in foreign fields. Glass left his watch and chain and other jewelry to his nephew and namesake, George Glass, in Bedford, England, and specified that the balance of the estate should be equally divided between his three sisters, Mrs. Charles Munday, Leeds, England; Mrs. Ralph Atkinson, Redwood City, Cal., and Mrs. John W. Bainbridge, London, England; and a brother, Albion Glass, Greatham, England.

RUSSIAN BAN ON PRIVATE BUILDER
OF FLATS LIFTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
RIGA, Latvia, April 27.—Driven from trade by government monopoly, and hounded into secret caches by communist tax collectors, private capital in Moscow has just received an unexpected concession from the bolsheviks. The soviet people's commissars published decrees permitting private persons to organize companies exclusively for the erection of apartment houses to ameliorate the acute housing shortage.

The decrees grant private builders the right to manage and lease the premises without interference from the government housing commission. The special laws governing buildings, particularly the decrees specifying that each inhabitant of Moscow only is entitled to 45 square feet of living space, are also annulled so far as the apartment buildings are concerned.

Government organizations are forbidden to issue requests for space to officials in such buildings. The builders are permitted to charge what rents they like. They will be exempt from income and other local taxes while the buildings are in the course of erection, and government banks will be permitted to finance the projects.

ANGLICAN CHURCH VOTES AGAIN FOR NEW PRAYER BOOK

Revision, Once Rejected,
Up to Parliament.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 27.—The measure for a revision of the Church of England prayer book was passed by the church assembly by a vote of 295 to 153 today, following a tense debate in the packed church house at Westminster. The house of bishops voted 22 for and 2 against; the clergy voted 183 for and 59 against, and the laity voted 181 for and 92 against.

A new effort will now be made to get the book past the small majority in the house of commons which was responsible for the revised book's first defeat.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, co-sponsor of the prayer book, presided and there were fourteen speakers for and against the revision. The Archbishop of York in a passionate defense of the revised book called for recognition by parliament that the assembly has done its utmost to "construct a real honest bridge between them and the assembly."

Proceeding the vote, Lord Hugh Cecil, supporting the measure, declared: "If the measure is rejected it will be just a week's holiday. Every ecclesiastical clergyman of the Church of England will be able to do exactly as he likes, and the church is rich in ecclesiastical life."

Sir Thomas Inskip, attorney general, who was one of the opposition leaders, commenting on the criticism of the house of commons vote, declared: "We are not a pagan assembly in the house of commons. It may surprise some of those who have described us as semi-pagan, but we begin with prayers each day, conducted by the canon of Westminster. I suppose we may assume that even the prayers of the house of commons are heard, and we hope and believe they are answered according to infinite wisdom."

SET NICARAGUAN
ELECTION NOV. 4;
U. S. WILL BOSS IT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 27.—Brig. Gen. Frank Ross McCoy, president of the electoral board, will leave Saturday on a hurried trip to Washington, where he has been called for a special consultation with the state department concerning the supervision of the coming presidential election and the general economic conditions in Nicaragua. During his absence Col. F. L. J. Parker of the United States army will act as president of the electoral board.

The board today fixed Sept. 23, 26, and 30 and Oct. 3 and 7 as registration days, and Nov. 4 as election day. In recent elections the registrations usually have been held in June. It is believed later dates were set to cut down the usual intense campaign period between registration and election days.

VISITING JUDGE ORDERS ARREST OF 2 AS PLOTTERS

Balks Woman's $6,000
"L" Award.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Judge George W. Bristow, 23, elected to the bench in Paris, Ill., last June, yesterday ordered the arrest of a woman plaintiff and her chief witness, holding them to the grand jury under bonds of $1,000 each on charges of perjury and conspiracy.

The judge, sitting temporarily in the Circuit court of Cook county, directed Assistant State's Attorney Emmett Byrne to seek a quick penalty for both. Those arrested were Mrs. La Dema Wayner, a widow, 33, residing at 1144 East 66th place, and Roy M. Putland, 48 years old, a bachelor friend, Belvidere, Ill.

Says Woman Led Plot.
"She should be punished more than he," the judge said, "because it is apparent she was able to call on him to give false testimony to corroborate her perjury. They should be punished quickly and readily as a deterrent to such practice."

Mrs. Wayner, on April 3, was awarded a judgment of $6,000 against the Chicago Rapid Transit company for injuries she testified she received on May 8, 1926, when struck and knocked down by the closing of an "L" car door at the Adams and Wabash street station. Yesterday's hearing was on a motion for a new trial, which was granted.

At the trial, Putland testified he was in that "L" car, and witnessed the accident. He said he never saw Mrs. Wayner before that nor after that until about two weeks before the case was called for trial. Then, so he said, he met her by chance looking into the same downtown show window.

Attorneys Thomas J. Symmes and William G. Wood, produced evidence that Putland was in a Wisconsin construction camp on the day of the accident. Recalled as a witness yesterday he said he and Mrs. Wayner had been acquainted for several years, that he had testified at her request, rehearsing the story during a recess during the first trial. He did that he said with Norman Long, an investigator for Attorney Leo M. Tarpey, counsel for Mrs. Wayner. Judge Bristow exonerated the attorney as deceived by Mrs. Wayner.

TOURIST IN CHINA SEES U.S. PASTOR AND WIFE KILLED

Missionary Unidentified; Second Report on Case.

BY RODERICK MATHESON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Copyright, 1928, By The Chicago Tribune.)
TOKIO, April 27.—The Tainiao correspondent of the Japanese news agency Nippon Dempo cable a graphic eye witness account of the murder of an American missionary and his wife at Yenchow, Shantung province, China, on April 13.

This is the second report from Tokyo concerning the murder of an unidentified missionary at Yenchow. Dr. Walter P. Reppner of the Presbyterian mission, who was a graduate of Wisconsin university and Northwestern University Medical college, and whose son is now a student at Northwestern, was shot to death at Taining, Shantung province, on April 15. His wife was reported safe.

The correspondent interviewed a Japanese traveler returning from Hainan province, who said he viewed the killing from an armored car at the Yenchow station while traveling with Shantung troops.

Claims Officer Old Killing.
"About 4:30 in the afternoon of April 13, when Yenchow was in danger of falling to the southern forces, I saw an American missionary about 60 years old, and a woman, presumably his wife, arrive at the station, followed by a Chinese boy carrying luggage," the traveler said.

"An officer of the Shantung [north China] forces questioned the American, who explained both in Chinese and English that he was not a spy, and offered all his money and possessions for passage to Taining or Tsinan. The officer agreed to grant the request, but as the Americans boarded the train, he suddenly drew a revolver and shot them both. He stripped their bodies of valuables and appropriated the luggage carried by their servant.

"The officer then laughingly told the soldiers they could have the clothing from the bodies, which were stripped and covered with sand."
The traveler said the retreating Shantung troops were largely rabble, without organization or discipline, and committed the most horrible outrages. They shot instantly any persons accused of spying.

NEW PROTEST TO JAPAN

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Copyright, 1928, By The Chicago Tribune.)
SHANGHAI, April 27.—The national government today delivered another sharp note to the Japanese government regarding Japanese intervention in Shantung. It demanded the immediate cessation of the transportation of troops to China and the withdrawal of those already landed. The protest declared the Japanese action was audacious, was not necessitated by the circumstances, and constituted a direct attack upon China's sovereignty.

The note says Japan is fully aware of the civil war situation in Shantung and could have followed two courses of action, namely either repeat confidence in the ability of the Chinese to afford protection, or temporarily withdraw the Japanese residents to places of safety.

Held Anti-Japanese Meetings.

Huge anti-Japanese meetings and demonstrations against the Japanese intervention in Shantung were held today at Hankow, Canton, and Foochow, while the National Student Federation's headquarters at Nanking today sent circulars to student organizations throughout the country recommending a boycott of Japanese products.

Stannard was seized and held by Mrs. Jessie Moxam, a grandmother, and Mrs. F. Moxam on Thursday when they found him carrying out property from the basement of a flat building at 1138 Pleasant street, Oak Park. He told the court he had been too intoxicated to realize what he was doing.

SENTENCE WALB TO 4 YEAR TERM, WEAVER TO 2 1/2

Both Are on Way to Leavenworth.

Port Wayne, Ind., April 27.—[Special.]—Clyde A. Walb, former vice president of the defunct National bank at La Grange, Ind., and former Republican state chairman, was today sentenced to four years in Leavenworth prison, by Judge Walter Lindley for violation of the federal banking laws.

Valentine D. Weaver, former president of the bank and a co-defendant with Walb, who pleaded guilty and turned state's evidence, was sentenced to 2 1/2 years in Leavenworth.

$51,000 in Forged Paper.
Tonight Walb and Weaver are on their way to the Leavenworth penitentiary in custody of a U. S. deputy marshal.

Walb and Weaver were convicted of placing $51,000 in forged paper in the bank, which later failed.

Judge Walter Lindley, who sentenced the pair, expressed the opinion that Walb was the aggressor in the illegal transactions at the La Grange bank.

"I feel that Walb was the aggressive party," said Judge Lindley in passing sentence. "I do not feel that Weaver would have been president of that bank. Somebody should have known it. As officers of the bank, you two should have been trustees for the interests of the stockholders. You betrayed that trust."

"There was a violation of the law by every member of this board of directors," Judge Lindley said. "They are the men who are trustees for the stockholders and it was their duty to know what was going on. Walb knew his loans were illegal in one sense."

Aids False Entries.
"No man can receive more than 10 per cent of the capital of the bank as a loan," a substantial part of these forged accounts found their way into the account of Walb.

"If Walb knew he was getting proceeds of the forged notes and retained them, he became an aider and abettor of the person who made the false entries in the bank books."

Weaver will be eligible for parole in February 1929 and Walb in August 1929.

GOVERNOR GREEN FIGHTS HOOVER'S CAUSE IN INDIANA

Lansing, Mich., April 27.—[Special.]—Gov. Fred W. Green will take the stump in behalf of Herbert Hoover in an effort to swing Indiana into the column of states pledging their delegates to the secretary of commerce, it was announced by the Michigan executive today.

The governor will spend practically all of next week in the Hoosier state in campaign work, beginning his speaking tour at South Bend May 1.

The fight being waged by Hoover against a favorite son, Senator James E. Watson, makes the Indiana primary a significant one.

Shumaker Issues "Blacklist."
Indianapolis, Ind., April 27.—[Special.]—The Rev. E. S. Shumaker, who, as superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon league, has been a dominant figure in one faction of the Republican party in bone dry Indiana, today announced his usual "campaign blacklist" in the current Indiana edition of the American Issue, a "dry" publication.

Of presidential candidates in the Indiana primary, the report lists Senator James E. Watson, Republican, as dry, "of record," and Herbert Hoover, Republican, as dry. Evans Woolen, Democratic candidate, is listed as dry.

Shumaker explained that "dry by record" means a candidate who has proved his dry attitude in voting on prohibition issues.

Nine of the ten Republican candidates for governor are listed as dry. Of the candidates for senator, the report lists Robinson "dry of record," and A. H. Gilliom as "wet of record."

Naval Balloon, Caught in Squall, Saved by Convicts
Norristown, Pa., April 27.—(AP)—Caught in a wind squall over a prison farm near here late today, a naval balloon, in command of Lieut. J. B. Richardson, was saved from possible disaster when 30 convicts seized ropes hastily thrown overboard and brought the big bag to earth. No one was injured. Lieut. Richardson and six student officers who accompanied him returned later to Lakehurst, N. J., leaving the deflated balloon behind.

Stunning Pictures Seen in Exhibit of Palette-Chisel Club

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Palette and Chisel club has just opened its annual exhibition of paintings and sculpture by members. Other Hoffer, whose "Joan of Arc" was purchased from the Chicago Artists' exhibit at the Art Institute, shows another canvas along similar lines. The young French peasant girl is seated at the foot of a great tree, beside her is a tiny child. In the background stand a ewe and a lamb with snowy fleeces. It may be that this is a maternal Joan, visioning the future of her little daughter.

Glen Sheffer has two fascinating canvases. In his foreign street scene there is color and life and reality. One can almost sniff the difference in the dust that blows along the boulevard. The entire atmosphere is for foreign and exotic, charged with the thousand subtleties which speak Constantino or Greece or Paris to the senses trained on Michigan avenue.

Leo Marzola has a beautiful still life; Oscar Gross shows a stunning portrait; James Topping has a free wind-blown countryside; Oscar Erickson, a restless evening landscape verging on the modernist; Otto Hake, a superb re-creation of the old German building from the Chicago World's fair.

The Lydia Bontoux purchase prize of $300, was awarded to the portrait of a young girl by Gray. The Palette and Chisel club gold medal was given to a magnificent landscape by Edward T. Grigware.

The exhibition will run through May 31.

The World Still Has a Smile for Small Children

BY MRS. GLADYS H. WINTINGTON.

A friend of mine wrote me a long letter the other day and when I asked her she said I could print part of it if I wanted to. Here it is:
"Where is this cold hearted world we hear so much of? Perhaps it's a cold hearted world for grown ups but it's not a cold hearted world so far as children are concerned. Take yesterday, for instance. We went market-day, young Jim and I (I left the baby at home).
"Oysters were first on the list. 'Our fish market has its own atmosphere. Yes, I know what you mean—but I'm not talking about the fishy air kind. The atmosphere here is man to man, one of standing jokes and discussion."
"Well, Jim, when can you eat lobster? When you're old enough I'll give you one, a big one, and your mother can cook it for you. And then Jim is told carefully all about the squid that's on the counter on exhibition, or about the sand shark that was caught in the fishermen's net, now lying on the marble slab showing his fierce teeth."
"The vegetable market came next. Here Jim was enveloped in a great warm Italian embrace of decided vigor."
"How do you? Nice-a-boy. Come, you come with me. What is it today—apple or orange? No—no money—what the camphor! You good-a-boy to your mother!"
"And on rambled the fine old fellow, pantomiming how proudly displeased he would be if Jim was not good to his mother. But we departed under the sunshine of his beaming smile."

"At the grocery store we walked into the kindly, merry, chaffing of young Irishmen. The store was empty, so Jim climbed up on the counter and swung his fat little legs as he ate a cracker. But even if they're busy, there's always time for him to be tossed a jolly smile and a joke."

"Next we went into our little really home made bakery and though I minded, no one else was in the least disturbed when a dirty woolen pail hovered indecisively over first the cookies and then the crullers. Afternoon hunger is always understood and greeted with helpful suggestions, and they're never too busy to say hello to Jimmy and give him a friendly smile."

"Even in the stores where we're toward children! What power they have to stir people! Take me, for instance. When I heard last summer that Molly was married I was interested in making life a bit pleasant for her during the courtship days, her married life is going to be anything but happy."

By their deeds you've got to judge them, Madeline. Not by their chatter. While I'm not in sympathy with any movement to rob a mother's weekly stipend for amusements, I do contend that a man who talks love to a girl for two years owes her a dent or two in that purse of his. If he isn't interested in making life a bit pleasant for her during the courtship days, her married life is going to be anything but happy."

He's Bounteous with Words of Love, but Spends Nary a Cent

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Madeline" has been going about with a young man two years. He earns $45 a week. But in all the two years, in which time he has fed her bounteously on words of love, he's never bought her a single ice cream. And one trip to an uptown theater has been the sum of his pleasure investment on her. But when he goes out with boys, he goes to the best theaters downtown and goes frequently. Then he tells his Madeline about the shows.

Madeline says she is good natured, about which there can be no argument; is well dressed and good looking if she can believe the many compliments tendered her. She's not a silly gold digger, she wants us to understand. She has spent more on the young man than he ever thought of spending on her, she says. So what's the reason for his peculiar ways?

Perhaps the answer lies in Madeline's admission that she has been the heavier spender. If there is one way to kill any budding spirit of generosity, just go it one better. That is, with a certain type of man, of free will, the answer is to let him judge.

There are some men to whom the biblical admonition of "ask and you shall receive" should be religiously applied. Otherwise, you're just plain out of luck. If one should ever marry this type of person she surely picks a loser in the marriage lottery. He's the kind of gent that wants to know what you did with that ninety-five cents he gave you last week to buy the house on. The kind that dresses himself up, spats, cane, and top hat, and lets the old lady remain behind while he goes forth to "charm" a sidewalk audience.

By their deeds you've got to judge them, Madeline. Not by their chatter. While I'm not in sympathy with any movement to rob a mother's weekly stipend for amusements, I do contend that a man who talks love to a girl for two years owes her a dent or two in that purse of his. If he isn't interested in making life a bit pleasant for her during the courtship days, her married life is going to be anything but happy."

Elmira Club Luncheon.

The Elmira club will give a luncheon this noon at the College club. Plans for Elmira college's exhibit at the Woman's World Fair will be discussed. Miss Ernestine French, executive secretary of the college, will be a guest.

A Charming Gown for the Debutante

BY CORINNE LOWE.

by Nanteuil, who this year has sent around the world some delightful evening gowns, and is especially charming for the debutantes and young matrons. Essentially youthful is this model, one which combines black point d'esprit with black tulle. The latter serves as a foundation allowed to peep out below its chrysalis of point d'esprit at the hem line, where it follows the same down-in-the-back movement as the overskirt.

This lengthened back, in contrast with a short front, is still one of the chief clauses in a fashion text which prescribes irregularity for every evening skirt. In this case it is combined with a corsage which is shirred into an unusual effect. The shoulder straps are without tulle foundation and they start from two points of the tulle, both front and back.

There are today a great many black frocks in the evening picture and a number of these are of crepe fabrics. Among such, crepe satin black crepe is a favorite and Paris is sending us some delightful examples of its use.

Embarrassing Moments

BY MRS. GLADYS H. WINTINGTON.

The Tribune will pay $1 for each letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Write on one side of the paper. Manuscript returned.

Renewing His History.

As bookkeeper in a small organization I wanted to make a good impression during my first two months on the job, and always tried to appear as though my work did not always let me out all day.

One day when I had nothing to do and was idly staring off into space, the boss came walking toward me and simultaneously began writing figures—1492, 1776, 1812, etc., etc., of the most well known dates, beginning with the year of our nation's birth. It would have looked all right from a safe distance but my employer was at that time gazing over my shoulder, smilingly reading off the numbers, gleefully announcing the importance of each date, and making each one come down to posterity—and me!

Little Island Up North to Be Wedding Scene of Miss Alice Little

BY THALIA

A more unusual and picturesque setting for a wedding than the Chicago lakefront, up near the straits of Mackinac, is the spot where Miss Alice Little, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Little of Evanston, has chosen for her marriage on June 25 to Dr. Curtis Nelson, son of the Murray Nelson, of 44 East Elm street. There the Littles have a place in the group of islands, the Snows, where every year a little summer colony arrives, with its own activities centering about the Cheneaux club. The wedding guests are to go up a few days before the bride and groom, and the wedding party, culminating in the wedding on Sunday afternoon, Miss Myra Little is to be her sister-in-law-to-be, Miss Phoebe Nelson, Miss Margaret Dunham, and another friend, unhealed yet, for bridesmaids. William Garrison is to be best man, and Charles Little and William Gordon are to be groomsmen. The wedding will be at about 10 a. m. on Sunday, June 25, and the bride and groom will arrive a few days later. No doubt the bride has not yet decided where they will reside.

This business of paying to learn something and having the pennies go to charity is a great system. Now comes an opportunity to brush up on contract bridge, with an expert, Horace Wiley of Washington, D. C., doing the instructing, and the admittance fee going to the Lower North Child Guidance Center. The committee, including Mrs. Arthur Farwell, Mrs. Jack Cummings, Mrs. George Foster, and Mrs. Sterling Morton, has arranged for two talks at the Casino on May 8 and May 15, and they want to sell a hundred tables at $5 each, that is for the two afternoons. I shouldn't think they'd have much trouble, because Mr. Wiley is a good and charming teacher, and because it's just as bad as guzzling your soup to admit that you don't play contract. Mrs. Wirth Dunham, Mrs. Cummings, Mrs. Harold C. Smith, Mrs. William Parsons, and Mrs. Francis Dickinson have already reserved tables, and the invitations don't go out until Monday.

Mal and Mrs. Frederick McLaughlin are to give a dinner party on Monday evening, afterward taking guests to the Palace theater.

The cards for next week's opera box committee meeting say Mrs. Joseph Long is to be hostess at the Wednesday luncheon at the Casino.

Mrs. W. David Owen has stepped to the rescue of the Junior League book shop in Lake Forest, and is taking over the management until Mrs. Robert M. Curtis, whose job it is, returns from California. Mrs. Keith Carpenter, who was substituting, has been incapacitated by illness.

The Lighthouse supper dance at the Drake last night was a gay and successful affair, inasmuch as everything edible, including tickets, tables, boxes, cigars, and flowers, was sold. There was a cabaret program of dancing, with Eddie Dowling as master of ceremonies, at midnight, and altogether, a great deal of fun. Among those present were the various officers and committee chairmen including Mrs. Stanley Morrill, Miss Mary Gardner, Mrs. Albert S. Gardner, Mrs. Charles Sawyer, Miss Mary Louise Fenton, Miss Virginia Richey, Mrs. Glen Sample, Mrs. Charles H. Fargo, a crew of elegant and flower girls, and besides, Mr. and Mrs. Rush Clark Butler Jr., Mr. and Mrs. D. Botsford Young, Mr. and Mrs. John Clay, Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Eldred, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Belknap, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reynolds, James Rawleigh, the Charles Adkins, and the Arthur Watsons.

And travel notes: The Charles H. Adams and their son, Charles H. Adams Jr., and Carl General and his daughter, Bethel Singer of the Belden-Broadford, sail today on the S. S. New York for Germany, and the Tracy family come in to New York on Monday on the S. S. Levantine midwest such a good company as the James (Jill) Stillmans, back from their honeymoon. Tom Heeney coming to town for the Tunny boat, and Peggy Watkins Joyce.

Arrangements Perfected for Chicago Food Show

A meeting of the officers and directors of the National Association of Food Grocers, and the Chicago Grocers' association was held last night to complete detail arrangements for the first Chicago national food show to be held in the First Regiment armory on the week of May 14. J. F. Lantry, general manager of the food store department of the National Association of Retail Grocers, said that a large percentage of the food store has been reserved. The show is being sponsored by the Chicago County Retail Grocers and the National Association of Illinois.

Engagement

Announcement was made in Paris today of the engagement of Weir Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Nelson, of 2223 Orrington avenue, to Miss Vera Brill Beryl of London. Mr. Williams met Miss Beryl on the course of a Mediterranean trip last year. The wedding will take place on May 6 at the bride's home in London.

Prairie Club Hike.

The Prairie club will hike six miles through the woods of Elk Grove this Sunday. The party will travel by bus from Market and Monroe streets at 1:30 p. m. The hike will be led by Mrs. Charles Krober, Miss Laura E. Johnson, and William Henderson will lead the hike. The public is invited.

Program for Veterans.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This design is especially smart for a frock of printed silk crepe to wear about town, and for general daytime wear. Slenderness is emphasized in every line, and it is an easy model to make. There is the fashionable front, side flare with a slightly bloused bodice with a deep rever collar, finished with a vestee. Crepe satin, flat silk crepe, khaki-kool, shantung and printed georgette crepe are chic materials from which to choose.

The pattern, 3294, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 38 requires 3 1/4 yards of 40 inch material with 1/2 yard of 36 inch contrasting.

POWER MEN SEE BOULDER DAM AS WHITE ELEPHANT

Private Capital Refuses to Tackle Scheme.

BY HARPER LEECH.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Los Angeles, Cal., April 27.—(Special.)—If Boulder dam power can be delivered in southern California at the low costs indicated in the estimates of engineers, who favor the project, the question naturally arises as to why private enterprise has not undertaken the development of the river.

There is more than one possible answer to that question. As late as eight years ago, private enterprise was eager to develop power on the Colorado river. The records of the federal power commission disclose numerous applications for permits to develop these sites. One company, after spending considerable sums on exploration and estimates, offered to build itself to spend $20,000,000 a year in such development, and, of course, in accordance to the plans of the power commission, which would require that developments undertaken should be of such a character as not to interfere in later years with the development of the maximum power of the river.

Are They Bluffing? Today these people take the position that they are not interested in the development of Colorado river power. They claim that the actual and prospective improvements in steam generation have rendered Colorado river power from the realm of practical economics. This may be a bluff.

An unsigned pamphlet circulated here, evidently of utility origin, says flatly: "If the time comes when Colorado river power can be demonstrated to be cheaper than steam power, it will undoubtedly be put to use. At the present time, however, steam power is undoubtedly cheaper than Colorado river power."

Now back of that statement are the undisputed facts that the utility interests once wanted Colorado river power, and their acts at this time appear to show that they are willing to bet millions that the recent development of engineering science has changed the economic aspect of Colorado river power—for a generation at least. This same pamphlet charges and every superficial indication in this country bears out the statement, "the present effort behind the Swing-Johnson bill is directed by the Los Angeles bureau of power and light, the advocates of the all-American canal and the United States reclamation service."

Bonding Power Absorbed. After analyzing the present financial position of the city of Los Angeles, with its bonding power absorbed by the needs of a fast growing city for streets, sewers, schools and public buildings, the pamphlet says, "It cannot possibly stand the strain of financing on the scale of construction required to make Colorado river power economical. Unless it can get the benefit of federal credit, it cannot finance power development on the Colorado river. This use of federal

HAMILTON CLUB WILL HEAR BORAH TONIGHT ON PROHIBITION ISSUE

Washington, D. C., April 27.—(Special.)—Before the Hamilton club at Chicago tomorrow night Senator Borah (Rep., Idaho) will open his speaking campaign for a prohibition plank in the Republican platform to be adopted at the Kansas City convention.

The Idahoan, who has the endorsement of his own state for the Republican presidential nomination, will thus open his fight in the home state of the one presidential candidate who has failed to answer his prohibition questionnaire—former Gov. Frank O. Lowden.

credit is of at least questionable morality, since the people of Los Angeles are the direct beneficiaries, and not the people of the United States as a whole, who pay taxes and provide the federal government with credit."

Would the power interests bid for Boulder dam power if the government provided it? They say not. On the other hand, if government money were sunk in the enterprise, it is only natural to expect that they would do as the Alabama Power company is now doing at Muscle Shoals. That company is buying power at two mills per kilowatt hour from the government.

The opinion of the "wise boys" in this city—the fellows who usually know the low down, is that there will be no difficulty in finding commercial consumers for Boulder dam power, if the "right kind of bill" is passed.

Sell Cheap Power.

If the philanthropic federal government wants to provide power on the Colorado river, regardless of the present economics of power generation—whatever they may be—sophisticated opinion here, which takes account of the acquisitive psychology of the west relative to natural resources and government money, is satisfied that the government will eventually sell the power on terms favorable to the buyers—and that may very well include some private power interests as well as the municipal power and light organizations.

DISTANCE MEDLEY AT DRAKE WON BY ILLINOIS

LEADER HANGS UP BEST MARK IN PRINT TRIALS

Three Records Fall,
Two Established.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.
(Chicago Tribune Staff Writer.)
The Illinois team, led by Walter Eckersall, won the distance medley at Drake, featuring the opening day's contest at the nineteenth annual Drake relay meet. The Orange and Blue teams covered the distance in 1:31.10, which will stand as a record, and was the first time the race has been held here. Indiana was second, and Kansas Aggies third.

Hastings college of Nebraska established a new college record in the distance medley by covering the distance in 1:31.10. The first runner covered the distance in 1:31.10. This performance shattered the former record of 1:31.10, made by Perry High in 1925.

The other mark to fall was the one set by the Iowa Intercollegiate A. A. relay team in the 100 yard dash. The team won the event in 3:29.3-10, which bettered the old mark of 3:29.3-10 made by Penn in 1927. The outstanding performance in the distance medley was that of Jack Williams of Notre Dame, who won his preliminary heat in the 100 yard dash in 3:29.3-10. Elder won his semi-final event time and an interesting race would result in tomorrow's final trials of Drake is expected to give us Notre Dame flyer a close race.

Cold Slows Records.

Weather conditions were a trifle too cool for the athletes to work at peak speed. A fairly strong wind from the north added the sprinters and hurdlers. The track was in excellent condition. AT LEAST HE LOOKS THE PART

The turf's oldest horseman as he basked in the sunshine near his barn at Aurora yesterday and spun a few tales about the war with Mexico. From left to right: Jockey Eddie Johnson, Exercise Boy George Bellow, Tom Cheek, who claims birth records show he is 102 years old, and Jockey Fred Smith.

Uncle Tom's Story

BY FRENCH LANE.
UNCLE TOM CHEEK, the oldest horseman in the world, wasn't inclined to be very informative to any one with journalistic connections when asked to be interviewed on duty at his stable at the Aurora race course yesterday.

The aged horseman was vexed because some of the reporters have been taking liberties with his age. "They say I'm anywhere from 106 to 120 years old," Uncle Tom remarked. "And the truth of it is I won't even be 102 until next July 25," he said. Then he stroked his beard and became a regular sphinx.

He wouldn't discuss horses, races, earlier days of the turf, great jockeys he has known, or, in fact, talk about anything. Somebody mentioned the war with Mexico. "Now, there was a war," Uncle Tom chimed. "I fought through it with a cavalry and rode a horse that was a great-grand-son of Hannibal, which won the English Derby in 1894. What a horse he was! Game to the very bottom of his feet and fast. A great jumper, too, and I think he was the best horse in my army. If I had him now I'd win plenty of races."

The little speech about the great horse he rode in 1894 in the campaign against Mexico softened him up a trifle and pretty soon he was telling his right age.

"I was born just a few miles from Warren, out in the hills of Pouquet county, Virginia, on July 25, 1825," he said. And he rattled it off in a way to indicate that he knew what he was talking about.

Just to help Uncle Tom keep his age straight with the reporters and his countless acquaintances a message was sent yesterday to the county clerk of the Pouquet county, Virginia, asking for the figures on the veteran's birth certificate.

"No record of any kind here showing birth date of Thomas Cheek. He was a thousand for all we know," read the reply which came from County Clerk T. E. Bartenstein.

Plansky Leads in All Round Test at Penn

Philadelphia, Pa., April 27.—(AP)—In a drab, rain soaked setting, that spoiled record breaking prospects, the advance guard of a host of approximately 2,200 college and school athletes opened the thirty-fourth annual Pennsylvania relay carnival today in a combination of Olympic tests and relay championships.

Before the chilling rain settled into a steady drizzle and turned the track into a mass of mud three carnival records, all in the decathlon, fell under the impetus of attack by a field of 15 all around stars from the east, south, and middle west.

Plansky Breaks Record.
Tony Plansky, rugged former Georgetown star, now representing the Saint Alphonsus A. A. of Boston, won the decathlon, leading the field in the shot put and led the decathlon brigade after the completion of the first day's grist of five events. The white Lloyd of the Naval academy, and like Plansky, a gridiron star, shattered the other two decathlon marks when he set the pace in the 100 and 400 meter races.

With the event assuming the importance of an Olympic tryout as well as carrying with it the intercollegiate championship, Plansky, who has won the title twice before, displayed consistently good form to run up a total of 2,773.106 points for five events. He will enter the concluding five tests tomorrow, however, with the comparatively slim margin of approximately 18 points over his nearest rival, Kenneth Doherty of Detroit, who won the broad jump and did well enough in the other events to score 2,762.501 points.

Moonmouth Star Out.
The decathlon field lost only one of its starters, Jack McIntosh of Moonmouth, Ill. college, after he had strained a tendon winning the high jump.

Major university relay honors were divided by Penn State college and New York university, while Harold Keith, rugged Oklahoma runner, furnished an individual sensation by winning the 3,000 meter steeplechase, an Olympic test, as an added starter.

BETTER GOLF

BY JOCK HUTCHISON.

ARTICLE VI.
STARTING where we left off yesterday with the club starting back with a gradual breaking of the wrist, we must work into that swing the essential footwork, weight shift and turning of the shoulders.

As the club comes back, there should be just a slight more weight on the right foot than on the left. This is the result of a slight shift of the body. This shift to the right as the club goes up must be very slight or it causes awaying, but that slight shift adds power to the shot.

As the left knee is breaking inward and the left heel lifting, the right shoulder should be turning away from the ball, but this turn also should be very little. There is a strong tendency among players to turn the body too much. The turn is about right when at the top of your swing you're looking down at the ball over the upper part of your left arm. It's not quite looking over your left shoulder and if you do look over your left shoulder at the ball at the top of your swing, you're turning the shoulders too far.

And here is a tip on getting speed into the clubhead, which is another way of saying getting speed on the ball and long distance. That is, have the club swing independently of the body. Most short drivers swing too much in one mass, too much "like a gate," and one of the main reasons for this is turning the shoulders too much.

On the drive the club should come back until it is almost square across the shoulders, pointing a little toward the earth; that is, the hands should be slightly higher than the clubhead. You should not be looking directly down at the ball but slightly from the side, as the head turns just a shade with the body. Keeping rigid, if the footwork is correct, the player will be able to stop at the very top of his swing and stand balanced, as perfectly as if he were standing with both feet firmly planted on the ground. It is that balance which makes for a true swing.

N. Y. RING CHIEFS O. K. TEX'S STORY OF DEMPSEY WIRE

Just Part of Promotion, Rickard Says.

New York, April 27.—[Special.]—The boxing commission today whitewashed Tex Rickard in connection with the telegram he sent to Jack Dempsey prior to the first Tunney-Dempsey fight, telling Dempsey he could have a referee and judges favorable to him if he would box Tunney in New York.

Rickard told the commissioners the telegram was badly worded and that what he meant was that Dempsey could be certain of a square deal if he boxed in New York. The promoter told the commissioners he never had requested to be allowed to name the officials for a bout and cited that as far as having any influence with the board he was unable even to get the commission to permit the box in New York.

Ring Board's Statement.
The commissioners gave out the following statement and refused to comment otherwise:

"Tex Rickard appeared to explain telegrams sent by him to Dempsey which were made public in the course of his testimony at the recent Dempsey-Kearns trial. He acknowledged under questioning that he never knew of any one receiving favors at the hands of this commission and he himself never sought this consideration. He stated that he did not intend his wire to Dempsey to convey this impression, but rather to impress upon Dempsey's mind that a fair and honest decision with positively no favoritism to any one in mind would be rendered."

KEARNS FILES NEW SUIT.
New York, April 27.—(AP)—On the basis of a ruling handed down in his recent losing suit against Jack Dempsey, Jack Kearns, former manager of Dempsey, today in the state supreme court against the ex-title holder for $500,000.

The jury which decided against Kearns in his suit for $701,000 against Dempsey Wednesday night determined, however, that a valid contract existed between the fighter and his manager from August of 1923 until broken by mutual agreement at Los Angeles in July of 1925.

Kearns' new action covers "all possible damages" during that period. Twenty days are allowed Kearns for the filing of a bill of complaint setting forth particulars of the suit. Dempsey will be allowed a summary period in which to answer.

COMPSTON 14 UP ON HAGEN IN LONDON MATCH
Chicago Tribune Press Service.
LONDON, April 27.—Archie Compston, the British professional, took a fourteen hole lead over Walter Hagen, king of the American professionals, today in the first thirty-six holes of their 72 hole match for the unofficial world's pro golf championship. This lead gives Hagen little chance of defeating the Briton as the final thirty-six holes of the match will be played tomorrow. The golfers are competing for a purse of $750 ($400 to Hagen).

With Compston leading and putting like a fiend, Hagen never had a chance. The American did not get a hole until the thirteenth, finishing the first round at four down, with a 72 against Compston's 68.

Cross Country Hoofers Reach East St. Louis

East St. Louis, Ill., April 27.—(AP)—Dashing through heavily crowded traffic lanes in St. Louis, Ed Gardner, Seattle Negro, led the transcontinental foot racers on the 28.4 mile lap from Hillside View, Mo., to this city today.

He covered the distance in 3:29.23. His time for the 2,862 miles from Los Angeles was 3:29:34.19.

John Salo, Pasas, N. J., was second in 3:31:55 with elapsed time of 3:34:12.53. Phillip Granville, Canadian distance champion, was third in 3:49:33—3:58:52.55. Gusto Umek, Trieste, Italy, followed closely for fourth in 3:49:58—4:02:33.40. Mike Joyce, Cleveland, was fifth in 3:54:33—3:58:22.41.

These three were added to a home run made by Mansuet to effect the inning's total of four.

Many of the Browns have sympathy for Schalk in his current predicament, they eased up in the fourth and went out in order. But they got to thinking about their averages in the interim, so in the fifth Blue and Brannon made hits and Lou scored. They then kept on that way the remainder of the game.

Sergt. Connolly, who in Detroit showed signs of being refreshed after his spring training relapse, had been counted upon to show something today. The game hadn't proceeded long before it was discovered the Sarge was as devoid of guile as a newborn babe.

By Edward Burns.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
St. Louis, Mo., April 27.—Sage Gray, pitching his fourth American league victory and his second over the White Sox, added Ray Schalk's charges materially this afternoon in their cellarward journey, the goal of which is a mere half game away. The score was St. Louis, 14; Chicago, 5.

The Sox would have been hitless from the third inning on and scoreless throughout, but for the fact that Kress booted Redfern's grounder on which he should have played the last out of the game. After that the Sox made their entire total on six hits, combined with the privilege of running unmolested on the base lines.

Four Runs Rout Connally.
The Browns made four runs off Connally in the second inning and added another cluster of four off Cox in the third. The pitching Mr. Gray added to the third inning misery by cracking out a double with the bases full, leaving only himself on the track.

These three were added to a home run made by Mansuet to effect the inning's total of four.

Many of the Browns have sympathy for Schalk in his current predicament, they eased up in the fourth and went out in order. But they got to thinking about their averages in the interim, so in the fifth Blue and Brannon made hits and Lou scored. They then kept on that way the remainder of the game.

Sergt. Connally, who in Detroit showed signs of being refreshed after his spring training relapse, had been counted upon to show something today. The game hadn't proceeded long before it was discovered the Sarge was as devoid of guile as a newborn babe.

Schulte Makes First Run.
Schulte made the first run of the game because he singled and came in on Kress' triple to the center field wall. Blue walked. Kress scored on Brannon's infield out and Blue reached third when Crouse dropped a throw to the plate. Schalk singled, scoring Blue. Gray was out, but Schang came in on the path of the double.

The pathetic entrance of the beardless Mr. Cox already has been recorded. His exit came with none down in the sixth, after he had passed one and had pitched hits to two. A hit off Williamson and two sacrifices produced three runs.

"Harpe" Goodell pitched the eighth inning and escaped with only two runs being made off his work.

By Irving Vaughan.
Haines "Kiki" Cuyler, the .350 batter with the .180 batting average, deserted Old Man Slump long enough yesterday to attach himself to a single at the expense of the long and capable Jess Haines, but that's only part of the story.

The hit with which "Kiki" brought himself back into the ranks of Cubs who served led to a tally, but Guy Bush was not in the mood to triumph on limited ration, as the Cardinals copped a 4 to 2 struggle that some 10,000 cash customers and women guests might have regarded as thrilling if they hadn't been so busy in the more important matter of trying to remain alive in a football atmosphere of forty degrees and less.

Bush Handled Lead Twice.
On two occasions Bush was face to face with the proposition of registering a win on the smallest margin possible and on two occasions he backtracked. They gave him a run in the fourth and he let it get away in the fifth. They gave him another in the sixth and he gave up the fight entirely by yielding two in the seventh. Then the Cards nicked him for another in the eighth, but this was merely in the shape of good measure, as the Cubs were so completely under the dominance of Haines that a one run advantage was all the veteran required.

The first bit of real action occurred in the fourth, when Cuyler severed diplomatic relations with his nemesis. The ex-Pirate blew open the round with a clean single to center and, by way of celebrating the incident, he scored the third run. Cuyler, who had fairly healthy fly to left and Cuyler scooted home after the catch.

Cards Tie Score.
Bush was an unbeatable workman during the first four chapters, but as soon as he was presented with a jam, out of the Cards he extracted a tally. Hatley led off in the fifth with a double, but the Cards failed to take advantage of the situation. They gave him a run in the fourth and he let it get away in the fifth. They gave him another in the sixth and he gave up the fight entirely by yielding two in the seventh. Then the Cards nicked him for another in the eighth, but this was merely in the shape of good measure, as the Cubs were so completely under the dominance of Haines that a one run advantage was all the veteran required.

The run that for a few minutes looked good enough to carry Bush to the final decision was put together in the sixth on the strength of a couple of hits. Maguire opened with a slant to right and Cuyler sacrificed. Wilson's fly to deep center permitted Maguire to go to third and he scored on a hit by Grimm after Stephenson had walked. Harnett then fanned, just as he had done in the second chapter when a couple of mates were on bases awaiting developments.

Roettger Scores for Cards.
Bush immediately gave his second exhibition of being unable to stand prosperly. With one deposited in the seventh Roettger, the ex-Illini, singled to center. Thevenon lined one safely over short, and Haines spiked a hit to right, Roettger going home and knocking the count at 2 apiece. Then

(Chicago Tribune Staff Service)
Stock buying sent the stock exchange to new heights for the year in the wild stampede for stocks. First one group, then another were set on by speculators for the rise and sent whirling to higher ground. Total sales soared above the four million share mark for the thirteenth time this year. The ticker was 4 minutes behind when the closing gong rang.

Reaction of the 4 per cent gold reserve bank, the New York Federal Reserve bank, caused the slight increase in brokers' loans were given as the news basis for the outburst of buying.

Rails are Early Favorites.
Bulls were chosen by the bulls as favorite early in the day, and then as price advanced, group sagged under heavy profit taking. Attention was switched to the oil and metal. Many of the morning session were found lifeless during the afternoon.

The blight which overtook the rally during the afternoon session was due to the fact that the rally was based on the theory that the good news about the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, Pennsylvania, New York Central, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, and Texas and Pacific were in the group that reached near the top of the market.

Oil shares were boomed as the most promising group during most of the session. Houston Oil, the three Pan-American issues, Sinclair Oil, and Standard Oil of California, were all up more than one point at the close.

General Motors, which advanced 1 1/2 points, most of the group moved up. Chrysler, 3 1/2, and General Motors, 1 1/2, were the only public utilities, closely followed by Chrysler, 3 1/2, and General Motors, 1 1/2.

Other issues that showed gains from three to eight points, included Allied Chemical, American Express, American International, American Telephone and Telegraph, General Electric, General Motors, International Paper, and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Topics of Finance Trade and Industry
Standard S. A. Manufacturing company placed the common stock on an annual dividend of $1.50 a share, with a quarterly payment of 37 1/2 cents per common on the old stock, and was split three times this year.

[Editorial]—Herbert Hoover appe

[Editorial] convention with a strength so close to a major nomination for President

Furthermore, it is entirely that Hoover will gain a suffic

battle will be over before it
These conclusions are the re survey of the fortunes of the five candidates for the Re mination at the close of the Hoover now has approximat of the 1,089 delegates who w

The secretary is assured o

It therefore is reasonable state that Hoover will go to city with not less than 500 d his credit. The majority

It would take only 45 hand ampers to put him across on [Editorial] With Hoover forging so sensa ward a majority the corn be are preparing for a last de stand in the convention to halt and nominate Lowden or Dawe to stop Hoover the corn belt la the cooperation of the east problem leaders who are dis

Farmers Like Dawes
It is evident that under the lose all the anti-Hoover elem

Dawes than on Lowden, for D acceptable not only to the farm enthusiasts supporting Lowden, substantial financial interests

Illinois governor. The Vice Pr
Hoover is staunchly devoted and will not allow the anti Lowden to put him forward
Lowden should withdraw. H may be too late.
The corn belt plans to halt the threat of bolting the Lowden ticket unless the party a candidate and writes a platf

of losing the middle v
